

Unfettered Government Critic

Churchill, in Twilight of Career, Back to Role Once Loved Best

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, July 27.—(AP)—In the twilight of his career, Britain dropped Winston Churchill into the role he once loved best—an unfettered critic of the government for which he toiled, sweat and wept.

Mr. Churchill, Britain's man of destiny in her darkest hours, proved unable in the July 3 election to pull his Conservative party—as he did his country—into victory.

Although in defeat, he gave again last night the V for Victory sign as he drove through the gates of Buckingham Palace to tender his resignation to the King—and to join the list of prime ministers who have directed and maintained the power of Britain.

AVOIDED CRITICISM

Even his opponents, who avoided criticism of his war leadership during the general election campaign, would not deny him his historical position with such other war leaders as Pitt and Lloyd George.

Mr. Churchill's face was grave as he drove into the palace where he had gone so many times throughout the last six years to smile at his sovereign on the progress of the war, but he smiled when he saw the spectators who had gathered, and waved his hand in the famous salute.

British "Reticence" Vanishes

Laborites Celebrate Victory

By ED L. CAMPBELL

LONDON, July 27.—(AP)—Joyous leaders of British Labor, flushed with their greatest political victory, celebrated last night with an exuberant rally that set traditional British reticence vanishing in the smoke-laden atmosphere of Westminster's Central Hall.

Thrilled party workers leaped into their chairs, shouting, cheering, whistling and clanging cymbals as they acknowledged the appearances and speeches of their leaders.

The smoke-laden atmosphere seemed almost to burst open when Prime Minister Attlee said in a voice resonant with pride: "I have this evening accepted His Majesty's commission. Admittance to the hall, normally seating about 2,500, was by card only, but chosen borough leaders were wedged in tightly and fully twice as many Labor followers thronged outside the building. Those unable to get inside chanted 'We want Clem' and 'We want Attlee,' until the new prime minister came to a balcony to address them briefly.

which became the symbol of his determination to crush Hitlerism.

In a vaudeville statement, he said: "I regret that I have not been permitted to finish the work against Japan. For this, however, all plans and preparations have been made, and the results may come much quicker than we have hitherto been entitled to expect.

EXPRESSES GRATITUDE
"It only remains for me to express to the British people for whom I have acted in these perilous years my profound gratitude for the unflinching, unswerving support which they have given me during my task, and for the many expressions of kindness which they have shown towards my servants."

Whatever his future role, Mr. Churchill is certain to be remembered as the man who rallied Britain to stand against the Nazis when the country stood alone, save for the dominions, the man who brought other nations to Britain's side, the man who hurled defiance at Hitler in prose that will be read in admiration long after he is gone.

He remained his people, when he became prime minister with the fall of the Chamberlain cabinet only—"blond, sweet and tender" And when the out-manned out-equipped RAF fought the Battle of Britain, Mr. Churchill voiced the sentiments of freedom: "Never have so many owed so much to so few."

Holders of matured obligations will surrender these for a cash payment representing par value plus an adjustment of unpaid interest for the last nine years which ranges from $17 to $24 per $100 of principal. Amount of the adjustment is based on contractual interest rate of the old bonds.

INTEREST ADJUSTMENT
Holders of unmatured bonds who take advantage of the refunding will receive an adjustment of unpaid interest covering the last nine years, an adjustment for coupon differentials between the old issue and the refunding issue, plus new bonds in the same amount of principal as those surrendered.

The Dominion government will aid in the program, providing $300,000 in cash immediately plus further additional grants of over $100,000 for each year of the life of the current Dominion provincial tax transfer agreement.

The refunding will become effective after a minimum of 75 per cent of outstanding bonds have been deposited for surrender, and when the $25,000,000 of new bonds has been underwritten.

It is hoped that the scheme will become operative by Sept. 1.

The government's land-clearing agreement with a Seattle contracting firm, under which 100,000 acres of land in the Peace River-Groand Prairie will be cleared and made ready for seeding, was endorsed by the assembly at its Thursday sitting.

GET DUAL BENEFIT
Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, who sponsored legislation validating the agreement, said the plan will mean that a returned veteran will be able to get a Dominion government cash grant and at the same time settle on provincial land.

The contractors have agreed to use Canadian citizens and particularly returned men, on the project, except in technical and administrative personnel, classifications. "Mechanical clearing on a large scale is the most economical way of breaking land," he added.

"We shall now prove that Labor's policies in action will bring greater happiness to the country as a whole."

RESOLVE UNWEAKENED

The Daily Telegraph, Conservative, declared, "The decision certainly does not indicate a weakening of our resolve to fight the war through and maintain Allied unity."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, which supported Mr. Churchill, exclaimed that "The watching world stands amazed," but pledged it would not indulge in "captious criticism of the new government."

The Daily Mirror criticized Mr. Churchill's tactics in calling an election at this time, adding: "Please, God, we've seen our last stunt election."

NEW YORK, July 27.—(CP).—Uncertainty regarding the effect the election of a Labor government in Britain is likely to have on world and British domestic affairs was reflected today in United States newspapers, many of which appeared surprised by the defeat of Winston Churchill's Conservative government.

The New York Daily News remarked that "democrats are notoriously ungrateful," and suggested that British voters "lashed out at the government, because of continuing wartime shortages."

"Presumably a lot of British voters felt that their best hope lay in sharing the poverty," the News added.

"The Chicago Daily News said the Labor victory 'presents the world with a new vista of vast uncertainty' but admitted it was too early to say if the result 'foretold a world trend to the left' or was merely sweeping out the 'old' who have had the hard responsibility of leadership in the most trying of all times."

Great Chance Seen For Labor Movement

LONDON, July 27.—(CP)—Harry Pollitt, general secretary of the Communist party which won two members in the new parliament, said of the Labor party's victory in the election yesterday: "It gives the Labor movement its greatest opportunity to write new and glorious pages of British history. The verdict of the people is unmistakable. There must be no pulling of punches to see that what they voted for they shall receive."

Mr. Churchill's Defeat

The defeat at the British polls of the Churchill government is a blow to the Canadian people, not only because of their great admiration for Mr. Churchill but because during those war years when his leadership was the heart of the civilized world he gradually took on heroic proportions in our eyes. And heroes, in the conception, are invincible and even immortal.

But practical politics take little account of poetic illusions and Mr. Churchill has been down to defeat, because of his own failings or through the ingratitude of the British electorate, but because when he assumed the leadership of the Conservative party he assumed also the weight of the sins of his Conservative predecessors. And not even a giant could win a British political battle with Baldwin and Chamberlain on his back.

Mr. Churchill loses, then, because he chose, unwisely we think, to carry the imputes of men of his own party, and, paradox, exemplified the principles to which he was most bitterly opposed.

There are two important points to be noted among the consequences of this election.

The first is that the British turn to the Left is bound to increase the difficulties of those who have been seeking to prevent a similar swing in continental Europe. There is no doubt that the Left will have impetus to the radical movements all the countries lately freed from the Nazis.

There is the further fact to be considered that, first, the defeat of Mr. Churchill, and now, the defeat of Mr. Churchill removed from the world scene, in a particularly vicious and vicious period, the two figures who had most to contribute in the way of bold vision, courage and the democratic outlook.

There would have been a possibility that they had been or will be replaced by inferior men. But certainly their successors, excellent and sincere as they are, do not measure up to the mental agility and vision of Churchill and Roosevelt. This leaves, for west or for east, and theoretically at least, the figure of Winston Churchill in the supreme councils of the United Nations.

Greater and Lesser

The real estate operators of Edmonton are to be congratulated and commended for refusing to follow the lead of other members of the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards in condemning the real estate order which suspends all evictions from rented premises.

It is true that this suspension order will cut rather severely into their business. For the fact is, that the order will definitely reduce by the rule which prevents the eviction of tenants from newly-purchased houses, since the previous law made it necessary, for the purchaser to be actually in a house if he evicted a tenant upon purchase.

The real estate operators in the East who have protested have quite clearly put their own interests before the interests of the public. It is to be hoped that the order in Ottawa's efforts to solve the low rental housing problem, it is still a most necessary one.

The eastern operators, therefore, have taken the stand that it is better to throw thousands of servicemen and other Canadian families out of their homes than to the realtors themselves should take a loss.

The Edmonton operators have taken a bolder and less selfish view of the situation. They have distinguished the greater from the lesser in the factors involved and they have decided that Canada's welfare is more important than the cost may be or whose pockets get pinched.

Let us hope that the operators will not and should not forget their duty in this matter.

And Still We Won

Washington has announced that the total of Allied shipping lost during the war thus far has reached the staggering amount of 32,000,000 dead-weight tons. The deadweight tonnage of a ship is the weight of the passengers, cargo, fuel and stores which the ship can carry when fully loaded. In other words, it is the weight of a loaded ship less the weight of the vessel itself.

The bulk of this lost shipping was employed in carrying supplies to Britain and thence to Murmansk, North Africa or other points in the European theatre. Most of the vessels shuttled across the Atlantic to and from the continent, but many were for far longer runs. If they had been four round trips per year, these ship losses cut down by 100,000 tons per year or more the amount of war supplies which could be landed in the fighting zone.

New construction of course made up for these losses—in time. But it did not recover the lost sea lanes. The cargoes which went down with the ships were gone forever. New building did not add a ton to the total amount of shipping which could have been put into service if these vessels had not been lost. Because they were lost the war dragged on for months longer than it need otherwise have lasted.

Hitler had good reason to count heavily on his submarines. They did not destroy all the lost ships, but by far the greater number of them. His U-boats came nearer to cutting the sea route to and from Europe than it is pleasant to think about. Had they succeeded?—D.

Girls in Uniform

While the Canadian Navy and the RCMP have balked recruiting for the Wrens and the Women's Division, the Army continues to enlist girls for the Canadian Women's Army Corps. This, of course, can be taken as a tribute to the effective work which has been done by this branch of the service both in Canada and overseas.

Nevertheless, unless this country intends to have women in uniform as a permanent part of its armed forces, it is doubtful if it is either economic or fair to the girls themselves to accept them for military service at this stage of the war. The Corps will be formed only to replace men in a variety of jobs and release them for combat duty. The condition, which means that women no longer prevail. There seems to be no great shortage of men for the Pacific war. And certainly of men to defend the men in the army of occupation in Germany.

There are about 13,000 girls in the CWAC at home and abroad. It seems to be the present intention to keep the Corps up to that strength by recruiting. But if women can no longer replace men in the service, it is of no more need to be released from office. Jobs will be found for them, what is the point of maintaining this CWAC strength?

The Corps is entitled to know if the original purpose of the Corps has been changed.

ON THEIR performance against the leading Yanks at Renfrew last night, U.S. Signals appear as more than a threat to the Army club's hopes of walking off with their third straight title.

Bob Sawyer pitched one of his best games—and he checked some good ones of the season in stopping the top players and well backed up by his teammates at the plate as he put his squad right back in the thick of battle for the play in the playoffs.

The signal outplay was ahead of Wayne Adams' crew for the entire nine innings and never once showed signs of weakening. He was in trouble tomorrow in the sixth when the Yanks loaded the bases, but he bore down to strike out pinch-hitter Manuel Dorsey to retire the side.

The only thing that resulted from that slight uprising was a little excitement for the fans. The addition of Bob Parker, hard-hitting center-fielder, certainly has helped the Signals' attack. Last night he helped himself to a pair of timely blows and was credited with driving in three of the winners' six markers.

Johnny Gray, who has a six and a half record for the senior season, was slated to start last night's duel for the Yanks, but took sick just prior to game time and was unable to appear.

Another Junior baseball tilt is billed for Clarke Stadium tonight with Arrows opposing South Side and Mike O'Neill is nominated as the hurler for Arrows in the game which will likely witness another classy mound performance.

O'Neill, now being hailed as the Junior League strike-out king, has fanned 78 opposing batters in the five games he's checked and allowed little signs of weakening last night.

Early Run Set Stage For Victory

PORTSIDER Bob Sawyer silenced the big guns of the leading U.S. Army Yanks last night at a four-run onslaught in the opening frame, came through with a 6-2 triumph over the Yanks.

Receiving good support from his mates Sawyer showed good control and a nice turn of speed was the big factor in his victory. He kept the nine hits he gave up well scattered, and sent nine Yank hitters back to the bench via the strikeout route.

Only on one occasion during the entire nine frames did things begin to look bad for him. That was in the sixth frame when the Yanks, Crumly and Meyer, and an error by pitcher Schaefer, sent the Yanks to the plate with one out.

However, he got himself out of hot water by forcing Schaefer to fly out to Culver at second and for the rest of the war his mates were in to pinch hit for Wheatley.

Skipper Adams sent his ace left hander, Bob Wheatley, to the hill to close the game. He was taken out but it wasn't his job as the Archer men got to his right at the start.

Before the final out was made in the opening inning the winners pushed home well-earned runs across the plate. That big lead was plenty for a fellow like Sawyer to work with.

This also marked the first loss in the league this season for Wheatley. He was taken out in the sixth inning in favor of pitcher Schaefer. Schaefer was in the sixth and seventh. Another southpaw, Red McKenna, went in and for the rest of the war his mates were in to pinch hit for Wheatley.

The ball chucker only gave up one run and one hit, and whiffed four before he was back to the mound.

On the first ball pitched at the start, Culver parked it for a triple into deep center. From the British side, Nelson and Lunt, who were walking, and then Nelson drove in two runs with a single and moving Schaefer to third.

Junker then scored him with a long drive into right center, and he was before he was back to the mound.

Edge Out Moose 5-3 U.S. Clippers One Game Up In Men's Fastball Playoff

Coming from behind, U.S. Clippers took a one game lead in the semi-final round of the northern Alberta senior men's fastball playoffs by posting a 5-3 win over Moose last night at Kingsway Park in the first of a best out of three series.

After getting away to an early two-run lead in the first inning, the lodgement extended the powerful Clippers, who only met defeat only once this year, to the limit.

Two walks, one error, a pair of stolen bases, and a couple of wild pitches were responsible for the losers' two runs in the opening frame. The Clippers came right back with a pair in the next inning on two singles, an error and a double by Kesteven and singles by Pohrer, Fogarty, and Wullenweber.

The losers threatened with a run in their last chance at bat on a single by Kesteven and Meyer's double.

Six Under Par Byron Nelson Paces Field In Rich All-American Open

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP)—Byron Nelson, the golfer who usually saves his Sunday punch for the final round, spanked a brilliant six under par 66 to pace the field in Thursday's opening 18-hole session of the $60,000 All-American open tournament.

Nelson provided most of the first thunder in the spectacular, three-day show at Tam O'Shanter course with a closing 30 after getting the range with a par 36.

That put him a stroke ahead of Lint, Ben Hogan of the Army Air Force, who opened with a three-under-par 33, but lagged over the back nine with 34 for a 67.

A surprise challenger was amateur Frank Stranahan, Army flight officer at Fort Meyer, Va., who blasted a 35-34-60, three under-par. Nelson in both the open and amateur competition, Stranahan slammed five birdies in his red-hot performance which came after most of the field had finished.

Four strokes off the pace with 76 were two veterans campaigners, Phil Shale, of Akron, O., and perennial Gene Sarazen of New York City.

By Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

SOMEWHERE along the gamut of counsellors and advisors that every serviceman has to run before he becomes a civilian some body has been kidding the troops about trucks. I have received complaints from several servicemen that they had been told they would be given top priority on the purchase of trucks and motor vehicles, yet when they made application their permit was refused.

Uniformed and overhauled advisors have been responsible for a list of the returned men's troubles, and the truck legend is another example just to get the record straight and to prevent returned men who are hoping to purchase trucks from being disappointed at the last minute here are the facts.

The only returned man who has a top priority in the purchase of a truck is the man who is in the trucking business and had to sell his truck, or trucks when he entered the services. Such a man is entitled to top priority, if trucks are available, in that case he is entitled to the purchase of a truck for the purpose of re-establishing his old business. In other cases, while veterans are given a preference where two people or more are available to obtain a truck, it is decided on its merits as judged on a basis of essentiality.

NUMBER LIMITED. The number of new trucks available for civilian use is strictly limited, and will continue to be severely restricted for some time to come. The result is that they have to be allotted to those persons who require them to provide some service which is actually essential to the community they serve and which cannot be provided in any other way.

In applying this test the control, let me not attempt to take into consideration how essential the truck may be to the person who applies for the permit. The only

Minister Says Has No Word on Proposed Strike

The provincial industrial relations board has received no indication that Edmonton Canada Packers Ltd. employees are intending to strike in sympathy with employees of the company's Toronto plant.

Mr. Gerhart pointed out that under the terms of an agreement between the company and its employees, any strike vote must be taken under supervision of the industrial relations board.

Mr. Gerhart pointed out that under the terms of an agreement between the company and its employees, any strike vote must be taken under supervision of the industrial relations board.

His statement follows: The Board of Industrial Relations has not received any official indication that the employees at the Edmonton plant of Canada Packers are planning to strike in sympathy with the employees of the Toronto plant.

I understand that strike votes are being taken by the employees at the Edmonton plant by the employees, signed an agreement with the company last spring pledging themselves not to go on strike unless a majority of the employees approved of such action in a vote taken under supervision of the board. It is obligatory on their part to do so.

Under the supervision of the board, although such action could be taken immediately and make their position clear, no request for a strike vote has yet been received.

There is no dispute at the Edmonton plant between employees and employer. Under the industrial relations act which was brought up to date by amendments at the last session of the Legislature, a definite procedure was established for the settlement of disputes where disputes arise but in this instance there is no dispute, the employees have not, apparently, considered it necessary to go on strike.

Nevertheless, the employees have signed an agreement not to strike until the dispute is approved by a majority of their members by a vote taken under the board's supervision. If they take strike action under these circumstances they will be in breach of the agreement.

Employees of Canada Packers Edmonton plant have applied to the provincial government for supervision of the strike and the vote will be taken immediately, it was stated Friday by Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of trade and industry.

Application for the vote was received by the board and was turned over to the board of industrial relations for action, the minister said.

To Make Application To Hold Strike Vote

Conforming with provincial labour law, executive officers of the United Packing House Workers' Union, No. 24, a CIO affiliate, are bargaining agency for employees at the Canada Packers Ltd. plant here, will make application Friday to the industrial relations board for permission to hold a strike vote.

Clayton Adams, chairman of the board, stated Friday that an executive of the union had telephoned him concerning the proposed application, and he had informed the union representative that the matter should be discussed with W. D. King, deputy minister of trade and industry.

Find Man Dead

William A. Gorr, 60, died as a result of the Lac Seul plane disaster. He was found dead in his shack Thursday afternoon by Const. H. C. Russell of the St. Mary's RCMP detachment. It was learned Friday, police said he had been dead about 24 to 36 hours.

He was a farmer and had been working on the farm of a relative. A coroner's doctor said no inquest would be necessary.

HOMEcoming MESSAGES GLADDEN EDMONTON FAMILIES—Both CNR and CPR telegraph systems in Edmonton are virtually swamped in the business of delivering happy tidings to Edmonton families these days.

The above scene is being enacted every day throughout the city. The young CPR telegraph messenger at the left is Dun Evans of 8815 95 street. He has just delivered a message to Mrs. E. Eggen of 11509 81 street (third from left), which announced the safe arrival back in Canada of Pte. E. Eggen, R.C.A.S.C., who has been away from home for five years.

Mrs. Eggen is signing for the telegram from her husband, a former street railway motorman. Joan Eggen, 13 years old, is second from the left, opening the message. Holding the tin is Barbara Eggen, 9, is viewing the happy homecoming of her daddy, Bobby Eggen, 5, is viewing the proceedings with considerable interest. He is looking forward to getting acquainted with his daddy, who arrived in Halifax on the liner Nieu Amsterdam last Tuesday.

Carry Important Tidings

Messenger Boys Play Dramatic Role In Delivering Servicemen's Telegrams

By JACK DELONG

When you see the next, but uniformed person of a young telegraph messenger threading his way through the maze of city streets, carrying a cycling wizardry that is truly amazing it's unlikely you give a thought to the dramatic role he fills each day.

These energetic youngsters are constantly carrying tidings both "good" and "evil." Their enveloped messages may tell of the safe arrival of a dear relative or friend in some distant land. They may tell of the death of some one equally dear.

There may be news of great good fortune or the reverse in any of the little yellow envelopes.

Every day now, and particularly after a ship docks in Halifax, Montreal or New York there are successive deliveries of "Arrived safe" STOP. Love to see you soon. STOP. Love to see you soon. STOP. Love to see you soon.

The youngsters love delivering that kind of message.

Young Don Evans, 8815 95 street, who delivers telegrams for CPR in Edmonton, is typical of these young bearers of good tidings.

"The families get pretty excited when I call with messages from returning servicemen these days," young Evans said.

They often jump up and down for joy. Sometimes they cry from gladness. And they give me quite a few tips too.

"They usually say 'I've been expecting that for two or three years, when I heard them the message'."

Mrs. Attles Prepares For No. 10 Downing St.

LONDON, July 27.—(AP)—The slim, grey-haired wife of Clement Attles is apprehensive over the prospect of running the premier's residence at 10 Downing Street.

"Don't talk about it," she said Thursday, "as he has had enough running my house at Stammer during the war. I have a housekeeper now but I haven't had her long and I find cooking, as well as cleaning, these days, like a lot of work."

Miss Helen Attles is little known, even at Labor party headquarters. She shuns the limelight and is content to be a housewife. She is the daughter of a commandant of the Red Cross which she has joined during the war.

"She is charming and always friendly," said a party member at the home of Mrs. Attles, "but we seldom see her."

Attles always drives her husband's car, sitting outside knitting while he goes in for appointments. To her, the home of the premier at Palace where he was commissioned by the King to form Britain's new government.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

WHY SOME PERSONS GET APPENDICITIS. In an earlier talk about appendicitis I mentioned the usual cause—infection by the common colon bacillus, the commonest, the most serious streptococcus, and the common pus-producing strains of staphylococcus. I mentioned also the suspicious frequency of acute appendicitis as a complication of an attack of acute sore throat, acute tonsillitis, quinsy. The germs are cultivated in the infected tonsil, and perhaps in a neglected infection of the throat, and a colony of the germs is carried through the blood stream, to lodge in the tissues of the appendix, where acute inflammation occurs.

In most cases of acute appendicitis the infection is through the blood stream, not directly from the interior of the appendix or the intestine. Even when the attack is due mainly or chiefly to colon bacillus infection, the route is via blood stream from a focus of infection in some distant part of the intestine, say chronic or recurring piles, or a minor intestinal ulcer in large or small intestine. Occasionally the focus of infection surrounding the appendix is infected by direct invasion from the lumen or interior of the appendix or the large intestine (fecum or head of colon) in which the appendix is embedded.

This is the mode of infection when inflammation is due to entrance of pinworms or round worms into the appendix, which happens occasionally in children who harbor such parasites, as a good many young children do without any apparent disturbance of their health.

Ordinarily the appendix admits nothing. Contrary to a common
